

Press Release

'Charlie is currently rehearsing for his role as "Father Frost" in the Russian Saturday school New Year presentation next month. Thankfully no knowledge of the language is necessary, only a strong resemblance to Santa Claus!'

'Webster News', December 2011 Edition

'I was delighted to attend the Russian School's New Year Party at Harris Academy to give a few words of welcome and see the children perform with such talent and enthusiasm.'

The children from the Russian School also made an excellent contribution to the West End Christmas Concert last Thursday.'

Russian school is a first for city
A CHARITY set up by Russian-speaking parents opened the first school of its kind in Dundee at the weekend.
The school offers a variety of subjects taught in the Russian language, and will operate from Harris Academy on Saturdays during term time.
The venture is being run by Russian Edinburgh, which aims to keep children with their language and heritage while helping them integrate into Scottish society.
The charity's school is

'We want our school to become a full-size member of the local community so the categories of people who will benefit from our activities will not be confined to the children from bilingual families and those who want to learn Russian.'
